The point of this book is not to settle arguments or transform rap songs into neat stories with a beginning, middle, and end. Rather, I'm trying to point readers to some ideas and information, get them to see deeper into the music than they saw before and learn more about worlds different from their own (or find new ways of looking at the worlds they already know)—to find their own meanings and connect them back to their own lives. I want readers to see the craft and learn the context—and I want them to still be able to feel the magic, and enjoy the show.

Veterans: 'We are the 99 percent'

FINANCIAL DISTRICT. About two dozen veterans joined the Occupy Wall Street movement yesterday.

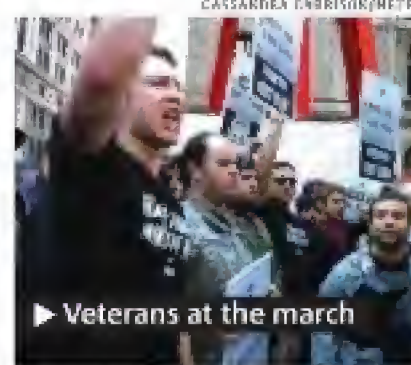

Veterans marched from the Vietnam Veterans Memorial on Water Street to Zuccotti Park yesterday morning, some of them in uniform. The NYC Chapter of Iraq Veterans Against the War organized the march to raise awareness on issues affecting veterans, such as cuts to health care and unemployment.

Many of the veterans expressed solidarity with Scott Olsen, the 24-year-old former Marine who was seriously injured during a police action at Occupy Oakland when he was allegedly hit in the head by a police teargas cartridge.

"Being out here in support of the Occupy movement is really a responsibility of veterans who may have a perspective that normal civilians may not," said Joshua Shepherd, a student veteran who served as a petty officer second class in the Navy.

The veterans were welcomed with cheers from protesters when they arrived at Zuccotti Park.

Temporary relief: Barricades flip flop

► Billionaires, street cart vendors alike rejoice as barricades temporarily removed ► But blockades will be up 'as the situation dictates,' say cops

For the first time since Sept. 17, people got a brief taste of freedom on Wall Street yesterday afternoon, when police removed metal barricades that had confined pedestrian traffic since the start of the Occupy Wall Street movement.

But the freedom was short-lived: Police put the barricades back up last night in anticipation of a possible OWS march.

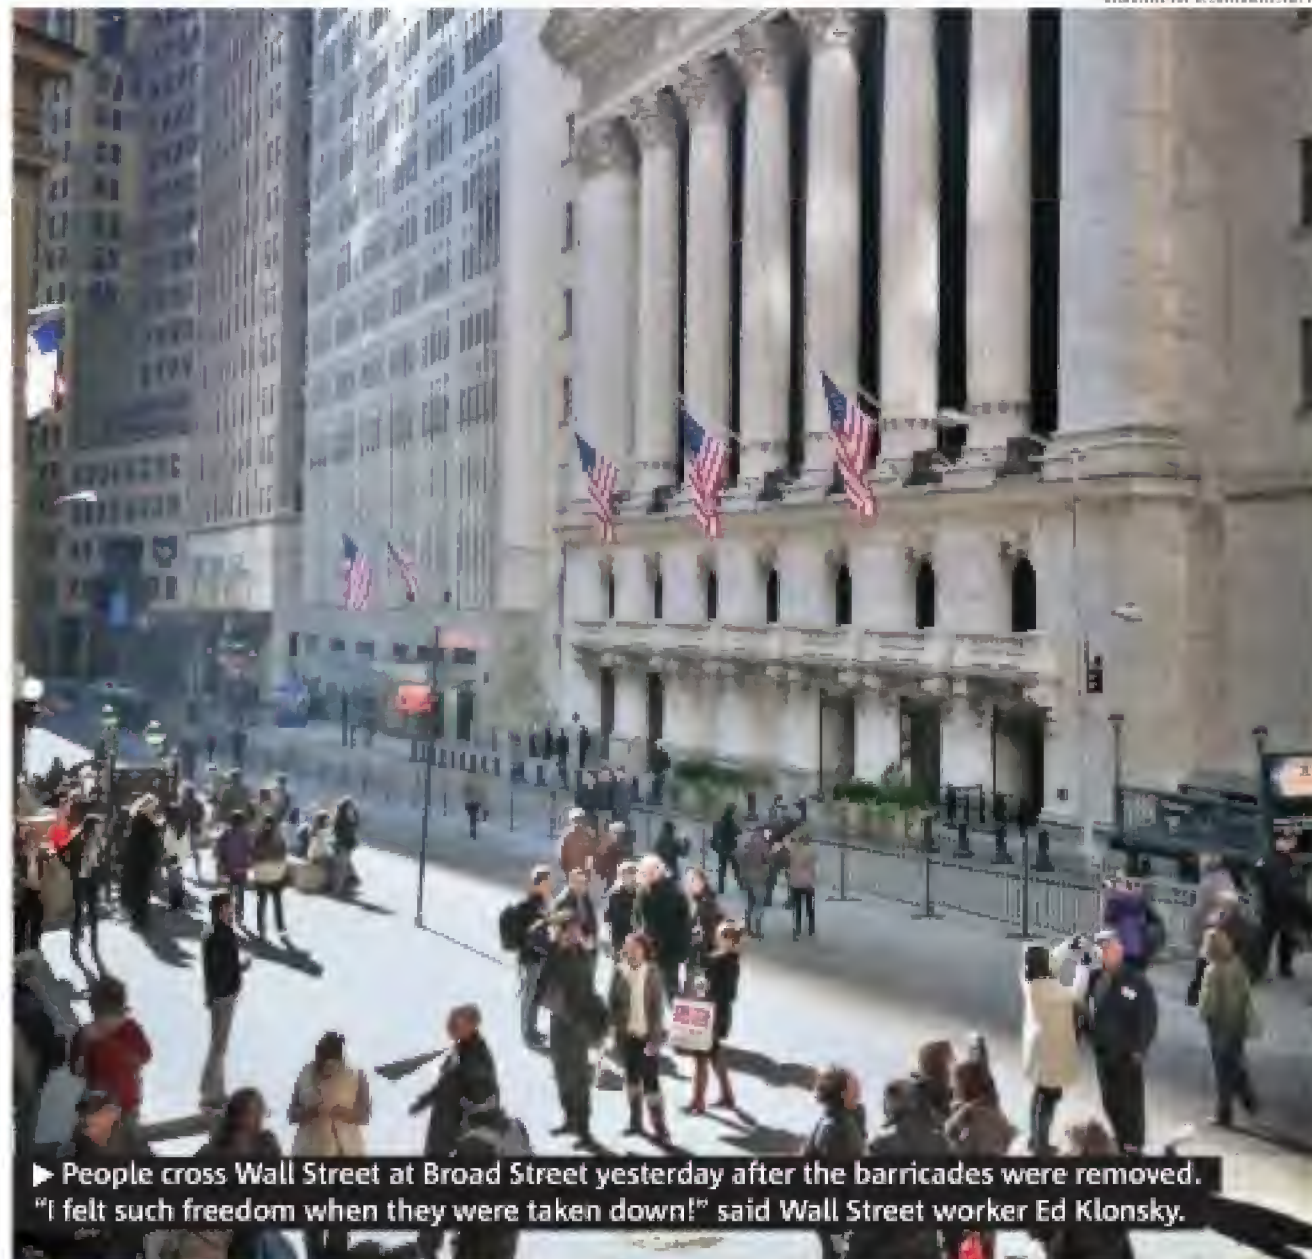

"Make up your mind!" fumed Pavan Surabhi, 33, who works on Wall Street. "It's a pain in the a—. I don't know what the barricades are here for — are they protesting Tiffany's?"

Police officers at One Police Plaza told Metro the barricades will be erected or taken down "as the situation dictates." "If they need to be deployed, they will be," said one cop.

Meanwhile Lower Manhattanites are resigned to life behind bars.

"It's bizarre, and nobody tells you what's going on," said Ed Klonsky, 56, who works on Wall Street. "You ask a cop what's going on down here and they tell you 'I'm just following orders.'"

Real estate tycoon Donald Trump, who owns the Trump Building downtown, reportedly called Mayor Mike Bloomberg's office to request the barricades be removed, according to Mark Epstein, owner of the Milk

Mayor warns Occupy

NEW YORK. Mayor Mike Bloomberg warned yesterday that the city may start taking a tougher line with protesters. LOWER MANHATTAN. A male protester at Occupy Wall Street who reportedly worked in the kitchen area of the camp was arrested Tuesday and charged with sexually assaulting a female protester while the two were inside Zuccotti Park. # Powerful people still make it here

New York City retains its role as a hot spot for power. On the annual Forbes Powerful People list, released yesterday, seven New Yorkers made the list of 70.

Moving up six spots was Mayor Michael Bloomberg, now ranked 17 this year.

Bloomberg beat out Rupert Murdoch, who dropped a few slots after his company, News Corp., was implicated in a widespread hacking scandal. Still, the scandal did not taint his power enough to kick him off.

"At the end of the day, he still runs News Corp.," said Forbes executive editor Michael Noer.

Notorious no-show

Dominique Strauss-Kahn, former International Monetary Fund head and accused of raping a maid in a Midtown hotel, did not make the cut this year. He was on the list in previous years.

Other Big Apple-ites who made the list include Lloyd Blankfein, CEO of Goldman Sachs and David Koch, a major financial backer of the Tea Party. New York tied for the city with the most people on the list — Beijing also had seven.

ALISON BOWEN

Woman in parking spat still recovering

NEW YORK. A woman who prosecutors say was allegedly punched regarding a parking spot, leaving her skull damaged, exited a

Rosas does not remember the incident, which reportedly happened after a parking space dispute. ● METRO/AB

World Leaders exclusive interview

Metro
interview

► Zalmay Rassoul, 69, was appointed Minister of Aviation after the Taliban's ouster, and then Foreign Minister in 2010.

► Foreign Minister Zalmay Rassoul of Afghanistan plays a key role in ending the 10-year war ► He has to convince international alliance to remain involved, even as they want to pull out their troops

ZALMAI RASSOUL 'FULL OF GRATITUDE'

Zalmay Rassoul has the demeanor of a veteran physician — indeed, he's one. Rassoul's calm nature serves him well in what may be the world's hardest foreign minister post. Ten years after the invasion of Afghanistan, he deals with countries eager to get their soldiers back — and he has to convince them that Afghanistan's own forces are improving, while at asking for more help. Rassoul met Metro in Paris.

According to a new survey, 37 percent of Afghan women think Afghanistan will become a worse place when international troops leave. Will it?

It has been 10 years. It's simply time that Afghan security forces take over. By the end of 2014, or even before, we'll be in charge. Of course, that doesn't mean that the international community will abandon Afghanistan. Our security forces still need training by foreign troops as well as equipment. If a U.S. soldier asked you why he should risk his life for Afghans, what would you say? The arrival for international forces was decided by the UN Security Council, not by Afghanistan. But what we have today in Afghanistan, we have thanks to these soldiers' presence. And the international forces have defeated the Taliban in Afghanistan. There are still Taliban outside Afghanistan, but in Afghanistan they've been defeated. And the soldiers have contributed to the security of their own countries. No country that has soldiers in Afghanistan would have been free of the risk of being attacked.

"In a few years we hope that Afghanistan will stand on its own feet."

RASSOUL

We're full of gratitude that the soldiers have risked and sometimes sacrificed their lives for us. But they've also done so to protect their own countries. Afghanistan is no longer a source of terrorism.

Maybe Afghans will be better off without foreign soldiers?

This is the first time in the history of Afghanistan that foreign soldiers have been welcomed. But now that 10 years have passed, of course Afghans want to see their own soldiers taking care of their security. Is the Afghan National Army up to the task? According to a UN report, 90 percent of its soldiers are illiterate; 30 percent are drug addicts.

We have some drug addicts in the ANA, but not 30 percent. Illiteracy remains a problem because two generations of Afghans couldn't go to school. But now we have a very intensive literacy program for new soldiers, and the percentage of literate soldiers is increasing every month.

A tougher challenge is the police force, with police officers helping or joining the Taliban.

Yes, we have many problems with the police force. We started training them very late, and being a police officer is much more difficult than being a soldier because he's dealing with the population. He needs to be literate; he needs to know the law. The Taliban are not recruiting police officers. There has been some infiltration of the police by the Taliban, but the majority of police officers don't help them. Every day we lose five to 10 police officers in the fight against the Taliban.

What is Afghanistan's foremost success post-2001? Democracy. We have a constitution and free elections. Twenty-six percent of our MP's are women. We have the freest press in the region.

Results of the Afghan War

Despite ongoing violence and corruption, the war has brought positive results to regular Afghans.

► Roads: Afghanistan now has more than 6,000 miles of paved roads.

► Utilities: Kabul for the first time has 24-hour electricity.

► Health care: More than 80 percent of Afghans now have access to basic health care.

150

There are now close to 50 private TV stations across Afghanistan, more than 100 community FM radio stations and hundreds of print publications. Official government permission is not required to start a newspaper or magazine.

100

There are now more than 100 public and private universities in Afghanistan, compared to fewer than 10 in 2001. There are more than 200,000 students, both men and women.

Ten years of war, what next?

KABUL. To date, the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq have resulted in 236,000 deaths and a cost of $3 trillion to $4 trillion, according to Brown University's Costs of War project. 2010 was the bloodiest year for the military since the Afghan war began.

Forty-eight countries, from Tonga to Norway, participate in the International Security Assistance Force.

With withdrawal of combat forces from Iraq completed, the international alliance has begun withdrawing soldiers from Afghanistan. This summer the first province — Bamiyan — was handed over to the Afghan National Army.

Just a few drinks a week tied to breast cancer

Women who drink just a few glasses of wine or beer a week may have a slightly increased breast cancer risk, researchers said Tuesday.

Their findings are based on more than 100,000 nurses followed for three decades and add weight to earlier studies linking alcohol to breast cancer and other tumors.

"Even at low levels of alcohol consumption, three to six drinks per week, we found a modest increase in risk," said Dr. Wendy Chen of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, whose findings appear in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Quoted

"This is an observational study, so we really can't say anything definite about cause and effect."

CHEN

And, she added, "There wasn't a particular period in which it was safe to drink alcohol."

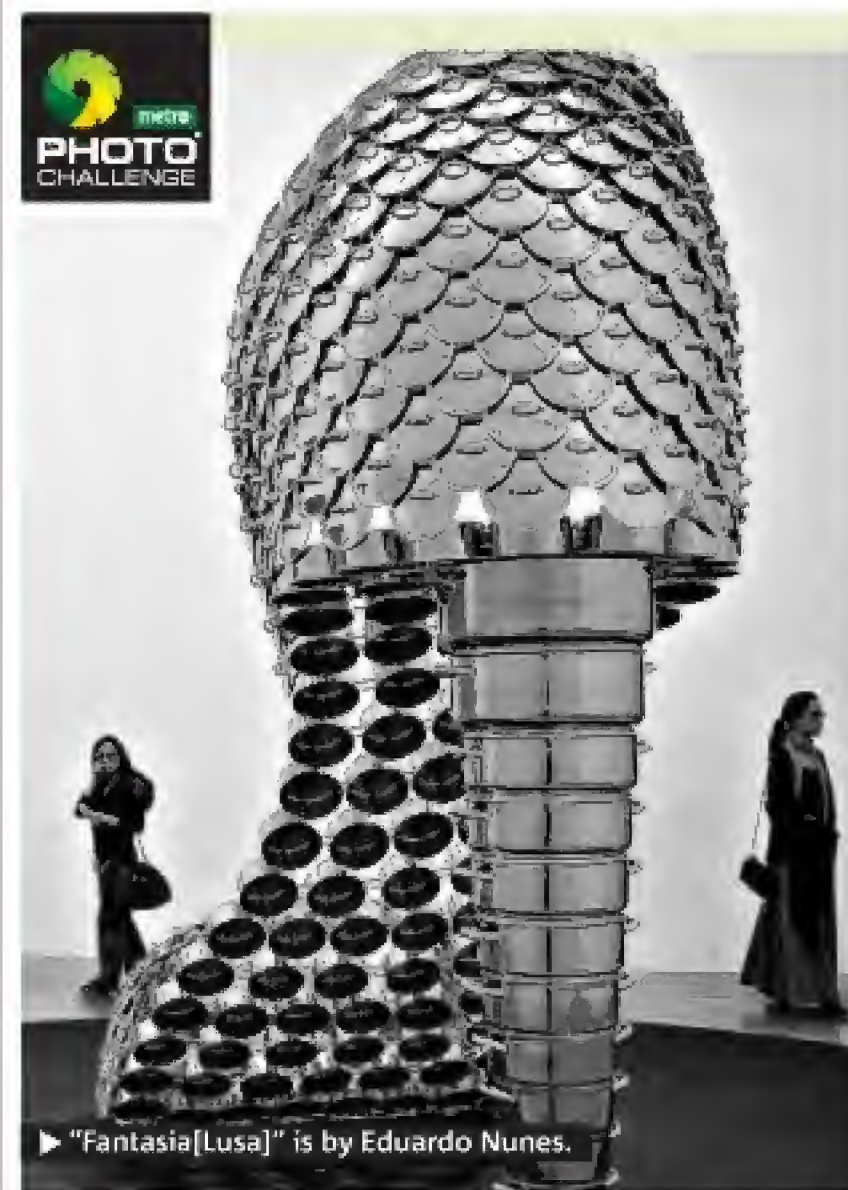

But before you put away the Pinot, there are some important caveats to consider.

First, it wasn't a huge effect — about 15 percent higher risk among drinkers compared with teetotalers. For example, even among women who sipped three to six glasses of wine per week, only 3.3 percent would develop breast cancer over 10 years. That compares to 2.8 percent of abstainers and 3.5 percent of women having up to 13 drinks a week.

Second, there is still no ironclad proof that alcohol itself is to blame, even though the researchers did their best to rule out competing explanations such as smoking or older age. They also adjusted for other influences on breast cancer risk, like whether or not a woman has had children and breastfed.

3, 2, 1, contest: Who wants to be a space cowboy?

► Button up those space suits, y'all: Metro contest first of its kind to send a lucky reader into the final frontier

It's your flight into space — in a not so distant future. Metro yesterday announced it will become Earth's first newspaper to send one of its readers into space.

Readers will have the chance to enter "The Metro Race for Space" competition launching next March. Hopeful civilian astronauts should submit an inspiring proposal on why they deserve to go to space and answer a "quiz" to test their knowledge of the cosmos.

Metro editions across the world will select their local nominee based on the quality of the submission, plus a voting component involving the number of a potential space traveler's Facebook "likes." Nominees will then face a global jury made up of real-life astronauts before the ultimate astronaut-to-be will be chosen.

For this mission, Metro has teamed up with Space Expedition Curacao, a leading commercial space flight enterprise that boasts the Lynx spacecraft, a first generation rocket-powered spaceplane.

The winning candidate in "The Metro Race for Space" will receive astronaut training ahead of the trip scheduled for 2014. The civilian astronaut will be able to chronicle his or her preparations and space flight itself in a series of reports published in Metro across the globe.

The competition will start next March; a global winner will be announced on April 12 in a global special edition dedicated to the topic of space and the future of space travel.

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Up, up and away

A history of space tourism:

► 2001: Italian American multimillionaire Dennis Tito became the world's first space tourist, reportedly paying $20 million for his trip. Travelling on a Russian Soyuz mission, he spent nearly eight days on the International Space Station.

► Six other space tourists have since followed Tito to space on Soyuz spacecraft, the most recent being Guy Laliberte in 2009, the founder and CEO of Cirque du Soleil.

► Russia stopped space tourist flights in 2010 but plans to resume them in 2013.

► 2004: SpaceShipOne, an air-launched spaceplane, completed the first manned private spaceflight. The flight made pilot Mike Melvill the world's first commercial astronaut.

"I have been in the jewelry business for 33 years. And I sell almost all my jewelry in the retail market with advertisements in the best jewelry magazines and on television, which means I have to find items to fill a huge customer demand. We are looking for everything, from costume jewelry to the finest estate items. We buy items for less than a dollar to more than $25,000. And we hope we can spend $400,000 or this week. I love buying antique jewelry. In the last 90 days, I paid $14,000 for a pendant, $7,500 for a bracelet, and $14,000 for a ring. I am a collector myself, and would love the opportunity to look at your jewelry."

WE ARE CONFIDENT OUR BUYERS WILL BEAT MOST LEGITIMATE OFFERS!

How to Test Us

Take your valuable items to other dealers before bringing them to us. Have them give you legitimate written offers. Then bring your items and your written offers to us. No one can guarantee to pay the highest prices all the time. But we believe the buyers we have chosen will beat most legitimate written offers.

Why Are We Telling You To Get Prices From Others?

Our buyers find it much easier to buy items of value from their customers after they have had previous offers. So it is in our own self interest to have you get written offers before coming to us. We also find that our customers are happier because they have the peace of mind of knowing they received a fair price.

Why Our Buyers May Be Able To Pay More

Our group of buyers will be here for only a few days. But in those few days, some of our buyers will buy more than many dealers buy in a year. Because of the volume of merchandise they handle, some of our buyers have developed world-wide markets and clients to liquidate their purchases at the best prices, which is one of the keys to why they can pay more than other dealers.

What Makes Us Different?

Most dealers who buy and sell items of value specialize in only a few areas. As a result, they are likely to make low offers for items in markets they are not familiar with.

For example, almost all jewelers specialize in new items. They do not often deal with old or used watches, which means they are unfamiliar with the true markets for such items. So if you have a used watch to sell, chances are a jeweler will make an offer on the low side because he does not want to make a mistake and pay too much.

The same thing applies to almost all items of value, such as lady items, art, jewelry, etc., that you bring to normal dealers.

Anderson, Carter, Bascom & Assoc., and Estate Buyer by MJD is different. Our volume buying has allowed us to bring together a large group of knowledgeable buyers. And although we do not control what our buyers pay, we believe they are comfortable paying prices that beat legitimate written offers from other dealers.

"Up To" Prices

IMPORTANT: All prices are based on rarity & condition. If an item is in poor condition, its value will be low. If an item is very rare, and in superb condition, it might be worth more than the "up to" prices listed. For example, a 1919 10¢ could be worth $1,400 in very high-quality condition or less than $1 in poor condition. In most cases, the "up to" prices listed in this advertisement are for items of exceptional rarity and quality. Chances are, you will not have those items. But we are willing to take the time to look at your items, just in case free of charge and give you our opinion.

IMPORTANT ECONOMIC INFORMATION

During the past few years, low interest rates, war, and an uncertain stock market combined to push prices of gold, silver, and many collectibles to their highest levels in 25 years. We have studied the investment and collectibles markets for decades, and in the past during times of economic uncertainty (which is happening now), there have been dramatic price declines in many areas of the jewelry, coin, and collectible markets. Which is why this may be the best time in decades for you to sell for some of the highest prices ever ► Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or less.

Today, Jim Carrey is pondering nature, Joan Rivers is putting current events in context, Seth MacFarlane is worried about the future, and Sarah Silverman is jealous.

► @JimCarrey: I wonder how many seals escape being eaten by great white sharks because the sharks have mistaken them for surfers.

► @Joan_Rivers: I think I know why Kim's marriage lasted only 72 days. Apparently she only knows 71 positions.

► @SethMacFarlane: There's a decent chance our next president will believe that humans once kept dinosaurs as pets.

► @SarahKSilverman: I wish I had a deity co-pilot. I don't even have an emergency contact.

The proper etiquette of a Kardashian divorce

Day three of Kardashian divorce coverage and we're not slowing down — not when, like Pompeii, there are so many unanswered questions out there.

But they won't be unexplained for long as — wouldn't you know it? — it just so happens Kris Jenner has a new book, "Kris Jenner: And All Things Kardashian," to promote! The ladies of "The View" grilled Mama Kardashian yesterday, and whereas Jenner was very honest, she says she doesn't know what her daughter will do with that $2 million dollar engagement ring. But we do, thanks to a quick chat with etiquette expert extraordinaire Lizzie Post, co-author of the new book "Emily Post's Etiquette: 18th Edition." And although "etiquette" and "Kardashian" go as well together as "Larry King" and "sex tape," Post does have some good points.

"That's her ring to keep," Post advises. "It's legally hers and it's up to her on what she decides to do with it. She did have a marriage. Just because it didn't last very long doesn't mean she didn't follow through with her engagement."

As for the news Kardashian is donating her millions of dollars worth of wedding

Jenner has a lot to talk about.

gifts to charity, Post says that is wrong, wrong, wrong. "It's totally inappropriate!" she laughs. "I know her heart is in the right place but the truth of the matter is, the intention behind a wedding gift isn't to be donated — especially if she goes and gets the charity tax write-off for it — they are to be used for their life together. The appropriate thing is to return them to the person who gave it. And she should include a handwritten note."

Post's last piece of advice is that everyone (even big-headed gossip columnists) should be respectful. "Everyone should be very open-minded and respectful now," says Post. "I don't care who you are — having a marriage dissolve after that short of time is very painful."

Lohan to go to jail

I feel like I've been writing about Lindsay Lohan for a thousand Kardashian marriages long (and, honestly, I probably have). The latest? The former starlet is going to jail for 30 days. After admitting to violating her probation for some DUI case or another, she will now have to report to jail by Nov. 9. After her release, she also must continue to do community service at the Los Angeles morgue and attend psychotherapy sessions, a judge announced at the hearing, per People magazine.

Talking points

Simpson gabs about weight, wedding

In an interview conducted before she announced her pregnancy, Jessica Simpson gushed to Lucky magazine about how happy she was to have put on weight. "I got so much scrutiny for putting on extra pounds, but I think that the decision not to make myself anorexic was actually great for branding," the singer and designer says. "All kinds of women started coming up to me and saying what an example I was setting by not constantly dieting." Simpson also says any speculation about her wedding is premature. "I haven't started shopping for our wedding yet," she admits. "When I got engaged, everyone thought I would get married immediately, but I have not put a single dress on."

Grant

Hugh Grant is now a dad

Hugh Grant has become a father for the first time, with a baby girl born to an unidentified ex-girlfriend last month, according to Us Weekly. "He's going to be a great dad," a source says. "He's beaming about his daughter. He's not with the mum anymore but he's absolutely thrilled." Grant was last linked to Chinese actress Tinglan Hong, and rumors that she was pregnant began surfacing in April.

Papa Bieber?

A California woman claims that Justin Bieber is the father of her 4-month-old child and wants the 17-year-old pop star to take a paternity test, according to TMZ. "He told me he wanted to make love to me and this was going to be his first time," the woman, 20-year-old Mariah Yeater, says in a sworn affidavit, explaining that they met backstage after an L.A. concert in October 2010, where Bieber allegedly invited her to join him in private — in a bathroom. "We went inside and immediately his personality changed drastically," Yeater says. "At the time I asked him to put on a condom for protection, but he insisted that he did not want to. In his own words, he said that because it was his first time he wanted to feel everything." Bieber's camp is denying the allegations, of course: "While we haven't yet seen the lawsuit, it's sad that someone would fabricate malicious, defamatory, and demonstrably false claims," the singer's reps say in response. "We will vigorously pursue all available legal remedies to defend and protect Justin against these allegations."

30 Million men suffer performance issues. #1 reason is that they are over 50! Thailand's "9 Inch" Root Holds Secret to Extended Male Performance!

Oregon man credited with bringing "oddly-shaped root" to U.S. market; improves blood flow, prostate function and ignites stamina!

Red Tallman, a retired Oregon businessman was searching for his own "secret fountain of youth" when he literally stumbled over a 5,000 year old Asian root that is proving to be the solution to male performance issues. He now leads a team of researchers in bringing this solution to the U.S.

Ever wonder why some men seem to be serving up a satisfying sex life while you are left hungry for more? When stress levels increase, certain nutrients become imbalanced, causing a premature decline in libido, testosterone levels and reduced circulation; all negatively affecting his ability to maintain physical performance levels. Not only do intimate encounters become less frequent, they become less pleasurable too!

"I was retired and finally had the time to enjoy myself but my body was holding me back. I truly believe that sex should be as satisfying today as it was when you first started having it. Sex is a part of being healthy. It's only natural to want to have more of it and for it to be satisfying!" says Tallman.

Red is part of a group of "everyday guys" who used their retirement funds to invest in the research of a rare combination of herbs from the far East.

Today they are receiving national acclaim for the all natural formula called 112 Degrees™, specifically designed to target the maturing man's overall energy, interest and physical performance by improving and optimizing total body circulation and prostate function.

Thailand's Gift to Men
112 Degrees™ contains top-quality, all-natural ingredients such as Tribulus Terrestris, L-Tyrosine, Pueraria, and Acai, formulated to improve male sexual health and performance, as well as support overall health and vitality. However, one ingredient in the formula can't help but stand-up in the group.

"My husband started taking 112 Degrees™ because he was experiencing performance irregularities. After taking 112 Degrees™, he has no problems." Chetay, AZ

Proof of Performance
Health professionals have noted that the "oddly-shaped root" may produce benefits such as a significant increase in the weight of the testes, higher sperm count and a greater release of male sex hormones, which explains the plant's reputation for increasing men's sexuality. This translates into an overall better experience.

"For the last four years I have had a significant amount of trouble with frequency of urination. I've seen a significant improvement with 112 Degrees™." Jude, OR

Breakthrough Combination
112 Degrees™ users have also noted changes that include increased morning erections, more intense release, improved urination, including ease of going and urine flow, and even getting up less during the night to urinate. Users can expect to experience improved blood flow, better prostate function and a dramatic increase in stamina.

According to a 2011 article in the Asian Journal Andrology the preparations of Butea are for male erectile dysfunction. It is affectionately referred to as herbal Viagra.

"Early morning erections have returned. Sustained erections during intercourse. I am satisfied so far." John, NY

Try A Bottle Free
If you're a man 45 years or older, generally healthy, who has noticed a decline in libido, physical ability or urinary function, then you may be suffering from reduced circulation and unhealthy prostate function and you can benefit from a free 30-day supply of 112 Degrees™. This non-prescription strength formula can help with sexual health and overall performance without side effects. LIFE SPAN Labs is sending out the first bottle free as part of a special promotion.

Your new favorite bar

► At $40 flat, Drybar offers a guilt-free, stress-free blowout experience ► Appointments as early as 7 a.m.

It's perfectly fitting that Alli Webb is behind the popular West Coast blow dry chain Drybar, which recently opened its doors in NYC.

"I used to beg my mom to blow my hair out when I was little. I had really curly hair and never liked it," says the Los Angeles residence, who originally started offering blowouts out of her home. Once her living room started feeling more like Vidal Sassoon, Webb knew she was on to something.

Now there are 12 Drybar locations across the country and one more opening up in Midtown in January.

► Webb

And although they don't do cuts or colors, Drybar's appeal is simple: a good blowout without the BS.

"I wanted to make it different from everything I hated about the current marketplace," explains Webb. "I'd walk into salons and [although] it was $45 on the door they would be like, 'for you it's $65 and for your friend it's only $55.'"

To avoid the bait and switch, Drybar offers the service at a fixed $40 — regardless of hair length, thickness, or if a stylist uses a flat iron or takes two hours on the look.

We know, we know: Your hole-in-the-wall spot is only $25. But Drybar is also about the experience. In the stylish salon customers enjoy chick flicks, sip on fruit-infused water and charge their iPhones in convenient docks, all while getting coiffed. The best perk: Appointments start at 7 a.m., a working girl's dream.

tina.chadha@metro.us

► At Drybar (4 W. 16th St., 212-561-5392) you choose from a menu of six styles, including the Mai Tai (messy beach hair).

Webb's favorite products:

► "This is for that woman, who, like me, is going on the fifth day of her blowout and her hair is starting to look oily. But if you just got the oil out [of the roots] it would still look great."

► MoroccanOil Hydrating Styling Cream, $31, www.moroccanoil.com

► "It's kind of my go-to. I put it on almost everybody. Most people have dry ends, and this isn't heavy and it doesn't weigh your hair down."

AOL posts third quarter loss, teases new social tool

Despite an 8 percent increase in global advertising sales, AOL's revenue was down 6 percent for the third quarter compared to last year. In a followup earnings call, AOL CEO Tim Armstrong alluded to a new social networking tool the company plans to unveil in the coming weeks, although he didn't release any details.

Total revenue amounted to $532 million, down from $564 in the third quarter of 2010. Net losses were $2.6 million, compared to a profit of $171.6 million a year ago.

The 8 percent increase in ad revenue — the company's second consecutive quarterly gain since 2008 — was driven by a 28 percent increase in ads sold through third-party networks like www.advertising.com. Display revenue from ads run on AOL's portfolio of Web properties was up 15 percent from the year previous.

RE: "THE 'AMERICAN DREAM' VS. OWS": When people take the time to learn about issues of public concern, it's not begging; it's civic duty. When people are convinced that current policy is misguided and take the time to express their opinion in public, it's not begging; it's part of the work that's necessary for a republic to function.

Clearly, sir, your major isn't American history, or you'd know OWS is not begging anyone for money but protesting the rich's power, as our forefathers did to begin America. It wasn't constitutional law either, or you'd know of OWS's freedoms of speech and assembly. Since your "American dream" is nothing more than money, your double majors must be Stupid-Tea and Voraci-Tea.

J. ANDREW SMITH, BLOOMFIELD, NJ

Let's wait until you graduate — perhaps you will find your dream has actually turned into your worst nightmare, like so many of those OWS, who are questioning this so-called "American dream" and finding it wanting.

Cain may have a lady problem

RE: "CAIN: I'M NOT A PERVERT": Your news item on Herman Cain's history of harassing women is in line with his women's rights policy, which is no abortion under any circumstances. This policy is in effect in some countries, for example Nicaragua, where women with life-threatening conditions such as ectopic pregnancy die. Doctors face jail if they save the women by doing an abortion, so the women just die. That is Mr. Cain's policy as well. Clearly he has some kind of score to settle with adult women and would make one rotten president. PAUL SIMONS, VIA E-MAIL

A new dream for a new day

I am living at an Occupy protest site. I work full time. I go to work from the protest. I find hope in this movement that America and the world can be a better place for myself, my friends and generations to come. The "American dream" has dissolved for most of us, but a new one is growing up from the seeds of hope in this movement. Please take time to understand this movement before you dismiss it. Perhaps you will feel inspired. Hope is a good feeling.

SAGE RADACHOWSKY, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Nature has endowed you with a healthy dose of drive and determination, both of which are enormous assets. Usually, once you set your mind to something it's a fait accompli; not today. ♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. There should be no need to revise your painstakingly laid-out plans. Don't try to second-guess yourself and fail to follow through on your plans. ♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. During this cycle, you should be exceptionally fortunate because of persons with whom you're involved. However, if someone in the group gets greedy, all bets are off. ♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. In your mind everything will work out as long as everyone goes along with your way of thinking, but woe to those who oppose you. You may need an attitude adjustment. ♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. You'll be far happier devoting your efforts and energies to tasks that are of a mental or creative nature, so try to stick to those areas. You're not apt to handle physical chores too well. ♈ Aries March 21-April 19. You have a lot going for you, such as sharp thinking, good friends and even some help from Lady Luck, yet you may fail to appreciate this and thus not capitalize on it.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. As long as you don't allow your impulses to override good methodology, you can achieve more than your share of objectives. Be practical and patient.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. If you're smart, you'll stay away from subjects that are debatable and can't be solved anyway. Your mood is such that you aren't likely to mince words with people who disagree.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Teaming up with another in a common cause can be extremely productive, but only if both you and your teammate put forth an equal amount of effort.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Someone with whom you're involved might need a bit of a push from you to get him or her started. If you can't handle this, stay away from any joint endeavor.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You're likely to be extremely productive and industrious, which is all well and good. However, if you get too far ahead of teammates, you could disrupt the assembly line.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. You'll be happier sticking to those whom you know like and admire you, and staying clear of people who think they are better than everybody else.

Channel your inner chef at city classes

► Cooking classes teach everything from knife skills to how to prepare a gourmet French dinner ► Learn as a group in a small New York City apartment or a huge restaurant kitchen

Now that it's way too cold to eat outdoors, take your food cravings inside — and learn to cook dinner yourself at one of the city's many cooking classes.

Scattered around Manhattan, these classes teach everything from the proper way to pick a salmon filet to roasting bruschetta for a dinner party. Metro tried out a few classes to tell you what's cooking around Manhattan.

Rustico Cooking (www.rusticocooking.com), with a huge, restaurant-style kitchen in Midtown, brings a Tuscan specialty, with courses on Italian classics. At a Glorious Garlic class, chef Micol Negrin walked the class through making garlic mashed potatoes and bruschetta, letting each student take a turn at squeezing out garlic and stirring the garlic-tomato sauce. Unlike some classes, the dinner also includes three generous wine pairings.

Make new friends at The Social Table (www.thesocialtable.com) in Midtown. Chef Rebecca Goldfarb promises "easy, approachable" recipes and brings her Southern California background to courses like crispy chicken with artichoke hearts or pork cutlets with applesauce. The classes like Simple Supper or Tex-Mex Fiesta are BYOB, and expect to don an apron when you get there. Sip on wine while chef Rebecca offers a casual approach on gourmet food that feels like cooking with friends.

One of the most delightful was Karen Lee Cooking (www.karenleecooking.com). Lee, a spitfire with decades of experience, teaches in her Upper West Side apart-► Metro reporter Cassandra Garrison at the Institute of Culinary Education. A typical cooking class costs about $100 and includes a few hours' worth of lessons, plus a full meal of your efforts at the end.

► At The Social Table, classes are capped at eight people, so you will definitely walk away with some new buddies.

Sweet treats

Classes are not just for learning how to make handmade tagliatelle. FIKA Espresso Bar (www.fikanyc.com) hosts the monthly The Divine Art of Chocolate. This month's is Nov. 30, when their maitre chocolatier will indulge guests with different truffle flavor combinations.

ment, a lesson itself in how to create gourmet meals in a city setup. Lee shares not only what she's stirring, but also how she picked out fish at the market.

Some places cater to the professional chef as well as the amateur. The Institute of Culinary Education (www.ice-culinary.com) hosts 26,000 New Yorkers a year with more than a thousand classes teaching everything from knife techniques to Japanese food. Work with an abundance of ingredients made available to you and learn everything from how to roll sushi to making miso soup. The De Gustibus Cooking School (www.degustibus-nyc.com), in Macy's, has classes like a Nov. 7 course on Moroccan food and a Nov. 15 lesson on meatballs.

If you're tired of the basics, sign up for a specialized class. The Miette Culinary Studio (www.mietteculinarystudio.com) in Greenwich Village teaches French Classics, capped at 12 students, so you'll get expert teaching in the quaint atmosphere of a 19th century townhouse.

More classes

Try out wines

Restaurants around the city offer wine tasting courses, some with full instruction and others sold more as a social hour. At the Brasserie Julien (www.brasseriejulien.com) on the Upper East Side, Tuesday wine classes include a five-course dinner, with small bites like a shot-glass size lobster bisque and braised brisket. The wines were a little out of order, but sommelier Mollie Battenhouse dispatched wisdom on why one Spanish wine had a more wooden taste than the other. Keep an eye on Gilt City — our tablemates snagged a half-off deal. Keep your eyes open also for random events, like a two-day Identita New York event this week featuring Italian wine classes at Eataly.

THE PATIENCE OF A SAINT

► St. Vincent's Annie Clark is all out of words to describe her latest album, 'Strange Mercy' ► Maybe her third and most interesting work is best left unexplained Annie Clark has been talking a lot about her most recent album, "Strange Mercy." A lot. When we phoned her on the road, she even let a little of her frustration slip when she put us on hold to answer the door of her hotel room.

"Hey! Come in. I'm just in f—in' interviews forever," we hear her say to the person at her door. Then she returns to our call. "Sorry, I didn't mean 'f—in' interviews," I meant 'Interviews!,' she says, trying to muster enthusiasm for ours, in a long line of conversations with the press.

But who could blame her? With her third and possibly most accomplished and complex work, she's had to try to define a sound that is at times gorgeously lush and melodic, then coarse and macabre a moment later.

"My least favorite question sometimes would be, 'How would you describe your music?'" Clark says. "I'm just like, 'You're a journalist. I think that's your job. I have no idea.' If I did, I would be ghost writing awe-

Q&A

Do you find yourself rewriting songs on tour?

"Usually a recorded song is just the starting point for any given song and it's by no means the end. It's the beginning, because it grows and changes as much as you will play it live for people."

some reviews. ... The most I can do is make it and try to get out of the way and try to say things in interviews that don't diminish the meaning of the music for a fan."

Clark might be wise to leave so much of her work unexplained, as it is its unknowable strangeness that is one of the most appealing aspects. And while many are already anticipating her next release, don't expect the Texas native to start writing anytime soon.

"Touring takes its own special part of the brain and writing takes its own special thing, which is solitude and you don't get tons of solitude on the road," she says. "[That is] really necessary for me to write."

Raising the bar's bar

► The "Bar Rescue" teams uncover just how much liquor is going into those mixed drinks. Valuable info for owners, if not for regulars used to an extra strong cocktail.

We do more than our share to support the bar scene, but we can only drink so much. Not only do bars fail, but there is an entire show dedicated to fixing their mistakes. Spike TV's "Bar Rescue" is on tour with "Bar Rescue University," a workshop for bar owners on how to track lost, stolen and wasted (for shame!) alcohol and stay afloat in the notoriously difficult business. Lost vodka is lost joy, so we caught up with show consultant Dan Smith.

How can owners control losses from free drinks and overpours?

You want them to be able to give free drinks to

Q&A

What kind of drinks make the most money for bar owners?

► Nondiscounted drinks translate to higher sales. A bar wants to encourage its staff to "upsell" drinks to guests that are not discounted on the nightly specials menu. A drink doesn't have to be a "premium" for it to be highly profitable.

guests that are spending a lot of money. A bar can control this by giving the bartenders a "comp budget." They get to ring up a percentage of comp drinks every night for these types of guests. As long as they control their comps, a business' costs should be efficient.

There's no shortage of great "bar food" in New York. How can a new bar stand out?

Some of the creative spins we've seen in New York are new takes on classics like French onion soup dumplings or veal parmesan sliders. The entire gourmet burger movement was generated out of making an American classic even better. To stand out, do what you do best — only better.

Is Eli elite?

- Manning's preseason words come back into focus prior to Pats game
- Coughlin defends his quarterback
- Manning deflects any controversy

When Eli Manning made one innocuous statement back in August that he was as "elite" as Patriots quarterback Tom Brady, it was looked upon as football blasphemy.

But since the start of the season, not many quarterbacks have had as much statistical success as Manning. Manning's numbers (2,127 yards, 64.7 completion percentage, 13 touchdowns and five interceptions) are comparable to Brady (2,361 yards, 67.6 completion percentage, 18 TDs and 8 INTs), who is also leading a 5-2 squad.

Manning is on his way to the best statistical season of his eight-year career.

"I don't particularly care about what others say," head coach Tom Coughlin said when addressing a poll on ESPN that didn't have Manning in the top 10 current quarterbacks. "He has put together a very, very nice string ... He is playing very well and we expect that to remain that way."

For his part, the always reserved Manning didn't want to rehash his statement — nor did he want the focus to be on Manning versus Brady. He said while he respects Brady as a "future Hall of Famer down the road" his task is to dissect the Patriots defense, not match Brady in a shootout.

"I think you just know that their offense is high-powered [and] has the ability to score a lot of points. So, we have to go into the game thinking we have to be smart, take care of the ball and not give [Brady] a short field, give him more opportunities," Manning said. "You have to try to keep the ball in our hands

Welker the fan

It's not a surprise that the media-savvy Patriots would praise Manning, but wideout Wes Welker was especially effusive in his compliments.

"I'm definitely a little biased working with Tom," the Pats' slot receiver said. "But I think Eli has done it this year and he's played really well. He's backing it up from what I can tell."

as long as possible. When we get opportunities to score, when we get into the red zone, we have to get touchdowns."

Patriots head coach Bill Belichick also had kind words for Manning.

"I thought he was a good quarterback coming in [from college] and he's still a good quarterback I think ... I don't rank them. He makes good decisions, he's accurate and a good leader."

102

Eli Manning has a quarterback rating of 102.1 going into Sunday's Patriots game. That would easily break his career high of 93.1 in 2009.

304

Manning is averaging 304 passing yards per game. If he continues at this pace, he'll throw for 4,862 yards this season. That would break the Giants record.

WR Nicks still not practicing

The Giants know the Patriots are terrible in pass defense — last in the NFL by over 30 yards per game to be exact.

But whether they will have their top receiver available to exploit that is very much in question. Hakeem Nicks (hamstring) didn't practice again yesterday.

"Well you have to make adjustments," Coughlin said. "But you're still expecting, like under any circumstance, we ask the guys that are coming along to step up."

Cubs fire Quade

Theo Epstein has started rebuilding. Epstein, the new man in charge in Chicago, fired manager Mike Quade after just one year at the helm. The Cubs were 71-91 this year.

Fan favorite Ryne Sandberg is likely not a candidate.

Holmes denies frustrations

► Just a few games after calling out linemen, Holmes gets testy about questions about own productivity ► Says it's all about winning games now

► Holmes has just five catches in the last two wins.

In the midst of their three-game losing streak, Jets wide receiver Antonio Holmes added fuel to the fire in the Jets locker room by complaining about the play of the offensive line. Holmes hit hard at his teammates in the trenches, saying that they were not giving quarterback Mark Sanchez enough time in the pocket to find his receivers.

Now fast forward a few games. The Jets have won two in a row and are coming off a bye week, yet there is still an air of discontent from Holmes. Through the last two games, Holmes has just five catches for 87 yards and a touchdown, a decline in production for the most expensive wide receiver on their roster.

Holmes got testy with the media when asked yesterday about his declining numbers.

"We're winning ball games; we're 4-3 right now. That's really all I can ask for at this point. What, four touchdowns on the season I think? I think that's a pretty good ratio — 22 catches for four touchdowns," Holmes said. "That fits pretty well in my book right now."

"We're not in the business of keeping people smiling, we're in the business of winning," quarterback Mark Sanchez said.

NEW YORK JETS

Rex wears down his players

Coming off the bye, the Jets went into their preparations for Sunday's game refreshed physically and mentally. They came out a bit more beat up and, according to head coach Rex Ryan, that was by design.

The grind of the NFL season can be a lot to handle physically, but the flow of the season means that extended time off can make it difficult to pick up and continue playing at a high level.

That's why Wednesday's practice was in pads.

"We went out there [and] really worked on our technique. It was a man's practice as Rex likes to call it," defensive end Jamaal Westerman said. "Playing against a team like Buffalo that likes to run the ball, it's important." ● METRO/KD

Galaxy's Donovan: Red Bulls a 'disgrace'

Following Tuesday's training session, the Red Bulls didn't want anything to do with the talk about whether they are a cheap team.

The controversy comes from comments made by Galaxy midfielder Landon Donovan following Sunday's 1-0 road win by Los Angeles in the first leg of their playoff series with the Red Bulls. Donovan cited his 11-year career in MLS and called New York a "disgrace," who have been playing overtly physical soccer throughout the year. He was specifically appalled at what he saw as dirty play from the Red Bulls, saying "in all my years in this league, I've not played against a cheaper team."

Red Bulls head coach Hans Backe brushed Donovan's remarks aside.

"Let them talk," Backe said. "We are at another level."

On Sunday, in their playoff win, the Galaxy committed 10 fouls, the Red Bulls nine — both numbers below the season average for either team.

"This is playoff soccer. When you're in this league long enough, you realize that the playoffs are a different season," Red Bulls midfielder Dax McCarty said. "The intensity kicks up a gear, teams want to win that much more. I'm not surprised by the physical play." ● KRISTIAN DYER ► Avery is back on the Rangers, but won't play tonight.

Avery won't play in return

Sean Avery is back with the Rangers. That much is known.

What is unknown is when he will play.

"Same lineup," John Tortorella announced following Rangers practice yesterday. The Rangers host Anaheim at the Garden tonight.

"I thought [the] biggest strength [of Monday's 5-2 win] was everybody contributed. We did the things we needed to do to start [to] be more consistent [and play] the right way."

Tortorella said after Monday night's win that he was leaning toward keeping the same lineup on the ice. Avery was aware of the situation even before Tortorella's pronouncement.

"I spoke to the coaches [and] I didn't skate because of re-entry waivers for a couple days and, you know what, the guy played pretty good the last game so I wouldn't change the lineup," Avery said.

He had been demoted to AHL Connecticut prior to the start of the season, but did clear re-entry waivers Tuesday afternoon.
